

Coaching Model

CRC Education Services, LLC takes pride in its coaching model. If we want to help educators reach their fullest potentials, we need to move past surface level coaching, which usually focuses on quick fixes, and move deeper into a person's values and vision for who they want to be, both personally and professionally.

This coaching service is offered for both educators, leaders, and individuals who want career coaching (regardless of industry).

Our coaching model is primarily driven by the work of Elena Aguilar, author of "The Art of Coaching" and offers three key elements:

- Values-based approach
- Confidentiality
- Independently created plans

Do you need career coaching for yourself or an employee? Reach out to carla@crcedservices.com to discuss a plan that fits your needs.

Testimonials

"I always feel so refreshed and energize when I come out of meetings with Carla. I love her open and honest personality and it makes me feel so much more comfortable."

"I got my first contract for $10,000 and it's really because you talked to me about your consulting work and opened my mind to the possibilities."

"Carla used many levels of questioning that allowed me to be reflective during my session. She challenged me to think holistically and her enthusiasm and encouragement led me to think outside the box for what is possible for my future."